

stealing time

this morning I wrote a poem I had to steal time to do it I had to hide in a little crack in the machine I had to write as fast as I could I had to pump out the words in the shadows between the seconds I had to hurry so I wouldn't get caught and it made me wonder why my time and my life belong to someone else and not to me.